GOVERNMENT PAPER:—

The market has been quiet and prices have shewn a tendency to decline under the influence of uncertainty regarding the New Loan, and also owing to rain holding off. Rates opened at 95 15-16 for Cash, and 95 7-8 for the near Settlement and declined 1-16 during the early part of the day. Later on a reaction took place and at the close the market is steady at our quotations.

BULLION:—

The London market for Bar Silver closed unchanged at 28 9-16 for ready and 28 11-16 for delivery in two months, the tone of the market being dull. New York was also unchanged at 62. Late yesterday the local market was easier, and the absence of rain is affecting prices here. This morning the market opened at 72 3-16 ex-duty for ready and has declined 1-8 during the day, closing as under for ready and forward. Bar gold is rather easier.

MARKET REPORT:—

Small fluctuations are reported in the American markets, New York closing a few points lower and New Orleans a few points higher. Weather reports from America continue favourable on the whole, but seem to have little effect on the market. Locally we are more concerned with the weather in India, and the market for New Crop is steadier owing to the absence of rain up-country. A slight strengthening of the monsoon is reported on the West Coast to-day and fairly heavy rain has fallen up to Ratnagheri. Sholapur reports a little over 1-2 an inch, but elsewhere there is no rain in the interior. Good Broach opened this morning at Rs. 303, export houses having withdrawn as sellers. A moderate business is passing in the bazaar in "suttas," but quotations for other descriptions are nominal. The market closes firm at our quotations.

Mills continue the best buyers of ready cotton. The demand is moderate but prices are rather steadier.

THEFT OF ORNAMENTS.—Purushottam Pranwalabdas, a resident of Cathedral street, reported to the police the loss of gold and silver ornaments valued at Rs. 790 in all. It seems that the neice of Pranwalabdas placed the ornaments in the drawer of a cupboard along with other property a fortnight ago. On Sunday last a goldsmith was sent for to make certain changes in the setting of some ornaments when it was noticed that the cupboard was open and the ornaments removed.

"VANITY FAIR."

IT is pleasing to note the distinct success of the new film shown at the America-India Cinematograph this week. No doubt the strange sensational has big attractions for the entertainment-loving public; but that the real and artistic has attractions just as great is proved by the fact that "Vanity Fair," a representation of Thackeray, has been able within the last four days, to win the favour of crowded houses, which fully enjoy and appreciate its merits. As this fine piece is to be shown for three nights more those, who have not seen it, should do so at the earliest opportunity.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The reading of the barometer at the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 32. F. and for Calcutta standard at 8 a. m. (local time) 25th June, was 29·659 inches. The height of observatory barometer cistern above zero of the tide gauge at Apollo Bunder is 69 feet. The height of tide in the stream above zero of the tide gauge was 14 feet at 8 a. m. (local time). The temperature correction for a mercurial barometer, supposing the reading to be 30·00 inches and that of the attached thermometer 80 deg. F. will be 14in. and this will be higher or lower by 01 inch for each 4 degrees. In the case of the aneroid no temperature correction is required. Should the height of barometer cistern either mercurial or aneroid above zero of the gauge be different from 47 feet, it will read higher or lower by 6 inch for each 11 feet. The readings above are distinct from those given in the daily weather report to which different corrections have been applied.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Beggar Nuisance in Bombay.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I am glad that at last someone has raised the subject of the beggar nuisance. I dare say the police have enough to do in running in rash motor-drivers and car-owners who use offensive sirens, without troubling about beggars, but something must be done to put down this daily increasing nuisance. I know little about the market region, but I have very painful experiences every day of my life in the Fort and especially in Elphinstone Circle. I quite understand the difficulties pointed out by "J. C. S." but that is no reason why beggars should be allowed to swarm all over the place. The police in the most badly affected districts might be armed with a light rattan and disperse the bands of beggars or drive them into back-streets where they can annoy nobody and that will save people who have business to do from annoyance and get over the difficulty of conviction and deportation. —Yours, etc.,

June 25. A BROKER.

II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—Your correspondent "J. C. S." has done good service in drawing attention to the beggar nuisance in Bombay. Apparently the police force wants strengthening, especially in the busy thoroughfares. "J. C. S." was fortunate in being able to see a policeman where he was wanted though he got little satisfaction beyond that. It seems to me, however, that dragging the culprits before the Bench and deporting them is only a temporary remedy. If sent to their native "gaums" they will make their way back again in double quick time and the whole process would have to be gone through over and over again. What is wanted is a poor-house, where the halt and the maimed and the blind may be sheltered and properly cared for. The poor creatures are for the most part blind or lame from youth, the off-spring of professional beggars, who have wilfully disfigured or crippled them the more successfully to carry on their operations. To take them off the streets would be not only to free us of a nuisance, but to put a check on professional beggary and prevent the disfigurement of beggar children. The older people would not appreciate being deprived of their liberty, but it would be better for themselves and for the community. It is undoubtedly high time the matter was taken up seriously, and it may be Government in considering the advisability of providing for juvenile offenders can be induced to couple with their plan means of accommodating professional beggars.— Yours, etc.,

R. D.

Bombay, June 25.

III.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—The letter by "J. C. S." on this question gives a very good picture of the danger and nuisance which the beggars in Bombay are creating and whilst his suggestion that deportation would mitigate the nuisance for some little time is a good one. I do not think it would effectually deal with it—not until begging is forbidden and made a punishable offence. By careful observation it will be seen that more than half of the beggars in this city are able-bodied men, soliciting alms for the really lame, blind, or otherwise afflicted, for whom they act, these being by far the more importunate. If a selection were made and the able-bodied made to work, the number would immediately be reduced to less than half. We find every year philanthropic citizens giving away lakhs in charity. There is an idea that I commend to those so charitably inclined, and which, if put into effect, would earn the lasting gratitude of the whole population of this city, "A home for Beggars." All those unable, through physical infirmities, to work for a livelihood, could be sent to the home and cared for, whilst there would be no difficulty in sending to jail those who resort to begging as the easiest way to live.

With such a home in existence the police themselves would feel that their work would not be in vain, as offenders convicted would not be given the opportunity of infesting the street again.

I trust my idea will be taken up by someone and that a beggars' home shortly will become one of the institutions of Bombay. I feel sure the name of the donor will be handed down to posterity as "One of the greatest benefactors of the city" and one to whom we all will owe our gratitude.—Yours, etc.,

Bombay, June 24.

Unrest in Goa.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Mr. Aloyzius Soares, who has contributed to your columns a letter on the unrest in Goa, needs to be set right on some points. He says that the Governor's "better sense has been overruled by a clique." Now any one, who has any knowledge of His Excellency's character, will at once repel this charge and declare, as was done in open Parliament by Dr. Antonio Jose d'Almeida, by far the best man of the Republic and intimately acquainted with the Governor, that His Excellency is too intelligent and conscientious to yield to outward influences. And a careful investigation of the fact shows that this is true in the particular case in question. The Governor, far from allowing his better sense to be overruled by a clique, has on the contrary made personal inquiries into the grievances of the Ranes, and has proceeded in the settlement of the question, in the manner which his sense and conscience dictated to him, as witness the following declaration made, at a meeting at Quepem, by Lieutenant Francisco Antonio Lobato de Faria, a domiciled European of standing. "I acted as interpreter between the Governor and the Sataryenses, and can assure you on my word of honour that on the part of His Excellency there was not the least threat against them, but that on the contrary he treated them with the greatest kindness, promising them that he would settle their question after hearing the opinion of the Committee which he was going to appoint for that purpose. Any other Governor who was well-intentioned and a friend of India, would proceed in the same manner as Dr. Conceiro da Costa has done and intends to do" It is clear from this declaration that Mr. Soares is not right when he says that His Excellency "in ordering an enquiry to be held into the grievances of the Sataryenses instructed Capt. Pereira, the very man whom they arraigned, to carry out the investigation." As little is Mr. Soares right in his other statements regarding Captain Pereira. The increase to treble the original amount shown in the returns on the Satary land was due, not to Captain Pereira's zeal, but to two facts, viz., the cultivation of a larger area of land and the adoption of a new method of assessment, instead of the old one which was discarded by the previous Governor as obsolete. I wish people would be more scrupulous than to give publicity to unverified rumours and to base on them their charges against the Governor-General and the much-maligned Captain Rolla Pereira. Mr. Soares has been guilty of this indiscretion in the letter in question. Such unverified rumours are the statement by Mr. Soares, that Capt. Rolla Pereira "was engaged in the plantation of rubber and that for his plantation's sake he enclosed many commons." In view of these vague reports which give occassion to unjust inferences regarding the motives of responsible officials and create unnecessary alarm in the minds of the unthinking population, does it surprise, you, Sir, that a well-meaning Governor, mindful of the interests of the country he governs, has "muzzled" the press, as Mr. Soares puts it by no means euphemistically, or as I would put it in plain language, has warned the press against publishing unverified rumours?

SIX YEARS' ITCHING TORTURE CURED

Face and Arms Covered with Eczema. Suffered Immortal Agony. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Effected a Complete Cure in Three Weeks.

"It gives me great pleasure to bear testimony to the marvelous healing properties of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I owe them a debt of gratitude for my complete cure from six years' itching torture of eczema. My arms and face were covered and doctors said it was incurable. I used to dread work for then I got very hot and itched terribly and my arms swelled so at night that I could hardly rest. Then I read the offer of samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper, which I advise all skin-sufferers to apply for.

"Before I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment I suffered immortal agony but after the sample had relieved me of the itching, I kept on with the treatment for three weeks and it effected a complete cure when doctors had pronounced it hopeless. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are a national boon and a great relief to all who suffer from diseases of the skin. I am a constant user of the Cuticura Soap, and the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are surely invaluable remedies for eczema from which I was a great sufferer until I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Enoch Evans, Baron Hill, Beaumaris, Isle of Anglesea, North Wales, July 23, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. They are sold throughout India, but skin sufferers who wish to try them without cost, may obtain a liberal sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book, by addressing Muller, Maclean & Co., Calcutta or Bombay, or F. Newbery & Sons, 27 Charterhouse Sq., London.

UGANDA AND THE BUDGET.

THE new item of expenditure, which Mr. Lloyd George recommended to the Commons on Monday in his Budget speech, had reference to the expansion and development of Uganda and the British East African Protectorate. The Colonia Office and the East African administration have been, it appears, pressing the Exchequer for the advance of money for the development of that exceedingly rich country. Communications and a deep water jetty would repay the money laid out upon them in a remarkably short time, for there is no doubt whatever as to the enormous possibilities of the country. Cotton is cultivated in increasing quantities and according to latest statistics, of which Mr. Lloyd George was not in possession, the amount of cotton grown last year was double that in the previous twelve months. Most of the crop was grown on non-irrigated land, but as the area suitable for cultivation under these conditions is very limited, no great progress in that direction can be anticipated. With money, however, great tracts along the banks of the Tana and Juba rivers can be irrigated and become important cotton-growing lands. During last season extensive experiments were made and satisfactory results were obtained, especially on one settlement where about five hundred acres were planted with Egyptian cotton. Experiments are now being made on the Juba river to ascertain what variety is best suited to the district. And as the Chancellor of the Exchequer showed, it is necessary that the cotton manufacturers should have more than one source of supply. Uganda and the East African Protectorate can produce all that is necessary if provided with the means of turning their land to account and this now seems to be within measurable distance of realisation. During last year samples of cotton soil from various cotton-growing areas in Nyasaland and Uganda were forwarded to the Imperial Institute for analysis and upon the majority of these, reports spoke favourably. Indeed, there is every reason to believe that abundant crops would result from efficient and scientific treatment.

Apart from cotton Uganda could depend almost entirely upon her output of rubber. She has wild indigenous trees which yield good quantities and experiments have been conducted with the principal exotic trees in order to determine their suitability for cultivation in the protectorate. The results obtained with para and ceara have been very promising. The Castillon tree has been found to grow well in the country, but it is not suitable for general cultivation as it is subject to the attack of a borer which does great damage to the trees. Practically all the rubber exported from Uganda up to the present has been derived from the wild funtumia trees or from the vines, but planting was commenced in 1908 and it was estimated that in 1911 there were 3,200 areas of cultivated rubber in the protectorate. In 1902-3 the weight of rubber exported was 68,626lbs. valued at £3,431 and in 1909-10 it had risen to 105,909lbs. worth £14,121. Para rubber, we find, was only introduced into the country ten years ago when a small plant, taken from the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew, was successfully established in the gardens at Entebbe. Subsequently a large number of trees were raised from seeds obtained from Ceylon planted in the gardens or in an adjacent plantation. During the last three years planting has been undertaken in a larger scale and in 1911 there were 2,200 acres in the protectorate under para rubber. The trees grow well and when last heard of the little plant from Kew, at seven an ha f years old had grown to 42 ft. 4 heig t and 2 ft. 6 in. girth. Highly sa actory tappings have been made, the re s comparing favourably with those o her rubber-growing countries.

Ceara rubber ti were also introduced into Uganda in 1 and as they grow and propagated thems es freely a considerable number we oon established in the gardens at Entebb at stations throughout the protecto e. The results of experimental tappi made on trees then were, however, un omising and in consequence the ceara e was considered to be of little value f planting purposes in Uganda. Durin the last three years, however, renewe attention has been directed by the orest Department and by planters to t possibilities of the ceara trees with e result that in 1911 there were nine h dred acres under ceara in Uganda. Re t tappings by a different method fr that at first resorted to have yielded m h better results. The wild funtumia bber is not neglected and the tree yiel all its latex at a single tapping. The e can only be tapped two or three tim a year, but this is regarded as an ad tage when dealing with wild trees whi are widely scattered through the for s, as it would be practically impossib to work the trees successfully if re ated tapping were required. The r er in the London market has fetche four-pence half-penny a lb., more than e hard para. And if Uganda had n bber she has timber of remarkably go quality, the bulk being hard-woods a "African mahogany" which is the b st on the market. Her mineral resour are an unknown quantity but iron re is known to abound. With the gran Government is about to hand over to t protectorate the resources will, doubtles be fully ascertained and will be turne to good account at the earliest possib moment.

PATRON SAINT AKBAR. THE first week of the current Mahomedan month of Rajab is held by the Mahomedans of In sacred to the memory of a very holy m who died at Ajmir nearly seven hundred ars ago, and pilgrimage to his shrine i that famous Rajput city at this time o e year is very popular, not only with e followers of Islam but also with m Hindus. Every year Ajmir is crow by pilgrims, but in the present year t influx is extraordinary and that city reported just now to be full to overflo g with people from every part of India. he Pir of Baghdad, who spent several eks in Bombay recently, has repaired jmir to pay his homage at the shrine e and this is the cause of the unusu sh of people this year. This saint of ir, though he is inferior in sanctity to great ancestor of the Pir of Baghdad, et the holiest saint of Indian Maho ans who have, for several centuries, giv him the name of Sultan-ul-Hind or S of India, and have regarded his m ry even more religiously than that of t best kings and emperors. Indeed, king nd emperors were proud to humble t selves before his shrine which they orated with costly ornaments. Akb the best of the rulers of India in for days, had a boundless reverence fo im and regarded him through life s own special patron saint to whom he d in every difficulty for intercession God. When the great Rajput fortr of Chitor, the stronghold of the valia Rana of Mewar, held out stoutly agai him, he prayed to this saint of Aj and vowed that when it should fall t arms he would make a pilgrimage thence to the saint's shrine at A a distance of some two hundred mi As soon as this conquest was over the born Rajputs of Udaipur was effected e hastened to fulfil his vow, and s t with a few followers, in homely g bare-footed with a staff in hand an dry gourd slung pilgrim fashion ov is shoulders on his self-imposed pe ian tour. LORD C E'S DECLA N. THE third reading of the Government of India Bill has become an historic occasion. It was in historic in a sense, of course, as markin e final stage in the House of Commons legislative measure, which embodies ges which are so momentous to the wh f the Indian Empire. It, however, gains added importance from the weighty utterance of the Secretary of State, in which explaining a much debated passage of a celebrated despatch, he disclaimed on the part of the Government any intention eventually of advancing India to the status of a self-governing dominion, in the same manner as that status is enjoyed by the white populations of our colonies. This was a pronouncement, which altogether overshadows in significance anything else in a debate, which included a miscellany of subjects and even descended to the comparative triviality of the pictures at Government House, Calcutta. The kindly reference, which Lord Crewe made to their ideal, which, he said, was revolutionary though not in an odious sense, will not soften the blow, which this statement must deal to Nationalist party. Though many of the more rational of the Nationalists must have realised that their ideal was one, which for many many years could not be regarded, even by them, as within the sphere of practical Indian politics, yet it was an ideal, which they have definitely held before them, trusting that if not in their generation it would come to fruition in the day of their children or their children's children. Lord Crewe's pronouncement must go very far to shatter all their hopes, for his words are very definite, and as he himself said as forcible as he can make them. It may be argued that the expressions of opinion, which fell from Lord Crewe were largely personal and that his definition of policy is one, which is not binding upon any but the present Government. We do not think, however, that the Nationalists can seek much consolation in this direction. We regard this pronouncement by a Liberal Secretary of State in his official capacity, and delivered in the House of Commons as one of the highest portent, and one, which it will be impossible for his party to ignore until a very great change has been effected in political conditions in India. Lord Crewe says self-government for India is an experiment, which it would be impossible to try, and it would be a remarkable statesman, who could find courage to eat official language of that kind. No, it is the definiteness and unmistakable plainness of Lord Crewe's repudiation of the intentions, which had been attributed to the Government, which will bring a relief to a large mass of European opinion in India, which especially after the ambiguity of the despatch, which has been referred to, could see no other logical end to the policy of the present Government than eventual self-government. Lord Crewe's statement will thus afford consolation to that section of opinion, which remains unconvinced of the wisdom or utility of Lord Minto's reforms.

THE OPIUM TRADE. THE Opium market has improved somewhat during the last few days and rates have advanced in Bombay by about Rs. 300 per chest from the lowest prices touched. The restrictions in China have not yet been removed, but as Government is said to have taken up the matter in earnest, there is a belief that China will not be allowed to persist in her disregard of treaty obligations. A similar feeling seems to influence the Chinese dealers in Hongkong and Shanghai, for during the last few days they have been buying on a small scale at both the ports. The conclusion of the arrangements for the Six-Powers' loan to China, has also contributed materially towards the present improved outlook. Merchants believe that the position of the central Government having thus been strengthened will command more respect and obedience from the Provincial authorities and they expect that our Government will prevent the Chinese continuing to disregard treaty obligations. Reuter informs us that the Times, in an article upon the condition of China and the proposed loan, asks "what can be the value of any safeguards for the legitimate expenditure of the loan when the authority of the Central Government is inadequate to enforce the most solemn treaty obligations upon the provinces?" This should impress the provincial authorities if they have any intention of co-operating for the unity of the Celestial Republic.

A BOOK by the Crown Prince of Germany, entitled "Extracts from My Hunting Diary" is about to be published. The book is illustrated with pictures by the Crown Prince himself, and also with photographs which the Crown Princess took when she accompanied her husband.

IN connection with the naval works which the Admiralty contemplate carrying out at Scapa Flow, Orkney, officials of the Works Department have visited the localities likely to be utilised, Graemsay, Flotta, Lamb Holm, and Holm, on the mainland. Defensive works at these points will all have wireless installations, and practically enclosed the whole of Scapa Flow. The works will protect all the entrances and the entrance to Longhope as well.

COMMANDANT RENARD, of the Government's Aeronautical High School, near Paris, has prepared a statistical statement of the causes of the fatal flying accidents during 1911, of which the following is a summary:—Lack of natural aptitude for flying, 25 per cent.; lack of sufficient training, 13 per cent; excess of expert confidence, 6 per cent.; imprudence or lack of foresight, 6 per cent.; fault in the plan of the aeroplane, 13 per cent.; defects in construction and lack of solidity, 20 per cent.; atmospheric accidents, 10 to 12 per cent.

EXPERIMENTS in the registration of sounds are reported to be in progress aboard the yacht "Hirondelle," belonging to Prince Albert of Monaco, and anchored in the harbour of Toulon. By the employment of an apparatus invented by M. de Zepel the "Marseillaise," played at Algiers, was distinctly heard at Toulon. It is said that M. de Zepel's discovery will prove of great value as a means of improving wireless telegraphy, rendering it impossible to prevent the interception of messages, and to simplify both the transmitters and the receivers of wireless vibrations.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

POLYTECHNIC HARRIERS' SPORT.

England's Hope for the Olympic Hurdles.

G. R. L. ANDERSON'S FEAT.

(FROM OUR SPORTING CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 7.

The Polytechnic Harriers' athletic sports at Stamford Bridge (London) on Saturday proved a powerful attraction, several of the cracks who will appear at the Olympic Games being among the competitors. No one was more closely watched than G. R. L. Anderson, the healthy looking young Oxford man, who is the English hope for the Olympic hurdles. He went over the sticks in grand style and beat K. Powell by fully five yards in 15 2-5 secs. This is a bit slower than he showed a few weeks ago, but fast enough he put him in the running at Stockholm. Next to this, the running of C. W. Hutson in the three miles level race was most impressive. He was not extended the time being just outside 15 mins. but his style leads many good judges to think he is a coming champion.

Another useful performance was put in by P. W. Mann, when running the first relay (half a mile) in the relay championship. He finished 6 yards ahead of P. J. Soutter in 1 min. 57 4-5 secs., and looks like improving. Soutter did some good running last season, but he will have to come on a lot to be near the winner at the Olympic Games.

VISITING ATHLETES.

Among the winners at the meeting was W. W. Coe of Boston, who was the English shot putting championship in 1901 and 1902. He is by no means fit, yet he won the event on Saturday with a put of 44ft. 2in. In a chat with the writer, Coe gave some interesting facts concerning the American cracks for the Olympiad, and it is clear we are going to see something sensational this season. He expects R. Craig to join him in London to-morrow, the great American sprinter having set his heart on winning one of the English A. A. A. Championship on June 22. As C. H. Patching of South Africa and D. MacMillan of Cambridge University will be joining in, we ought to see something sensational in the sprint and furlong.

R. McArthur, the stalwart policeman from the Transvaal, will be one of the Empire's main hopes for the Marathon race at Stockholm. He is making his headquarters at the Red Lion Hotel, Southall, where Eddie Cotter of Canada stayed two years ago, and the training quarters of Mike Ryan in 1911. His heel gave him trouble last Saturday, and when his trainer called on the writer to describe the symptoms the next day it sounded like a bruised heel. Fortunately it was not so serious, the trouble being inflammation due to a small abscess. Thanks to the care and attention of the wife of the proprietor of the hotel where McArthur is staying, he was able to get his shoe on again by Tuesday and he was bright and cheerful when seen by the writer in the evening. The big Irishman is lucky to be at such comfortable quarters, where he is most carefully looked after. His hostess was trained at Guy's Hospital, and her prompt and correct treatment of McArthur's heel trouble was most valuable. McArthur looks the picture of health and is confident of making a big show for South Africa and the Empire.

A CHAMPION BOXER.

The old country is not very well off for champion boxers and since the days of Charlie Mitchell and Bob Fitzimons, Englishmen, have not done much among heavy weights. British light and feather weights have been more prominent and in Fred Welsh, Matt Wells and Jim Driscoll we have three worthy representatives. The last named is now a real veteran, but the way he performed at the National Sporting Club on Monday was a treat to all. In Jean Posey of France he was up against a sturdy, plucky and youthful boxer, who has the real fighting spirit. There was no question as to their relative merits as scientific boxers after the second round. Driscoll was much faster than his rival. He would creep slowly in until he was within distance, then out would go the left, and frequently the home man got in a regular postman's knock, that is, three rapid lefts in succession. Occasionally Driscoll sent in the left and followed up with the right, his quickness being amazing. Posey was always eager to get in close. He would then rest his head on Driscoll's shoulder and punch away at the body. The Irish-Welshman always appeared to be safe, however, Posey getting in few effective blows. The Frenchman cut loose in the twelfth round, evidently recognising that a knock out was his one hope. The tactics led to his undoing, for Driscall got an opening to send in his right to the jaw. Posey staggered to the ropes and before he could recover, Driscoll dropped his rival. The latter got up at once scoring to take the rest and rushed in. Driscoll dodged away and sending in another right floored his man. Posey was all in and though one of his second frantically beat the stage to rouse him, it was all in vain, the Frenchman merely turning over in his efforts to rise. Driscoll was the first to go to Posey when the ten seconds had expired, the winner picking up his rival and helping him to his chair. Driscoll talks of going to America shortly, for, he says, they are "pally" with him over there. He will probably take Jack Harrison, the new middle weight champion, with him, and the latter is a likely man to "make good." He can hit hard and take punishment, very necessary indeed, when up against the aggressive American boxers. Harrison was at the Club on Monday to receive the championship belt from the hands of Lord Lonsdale, (the donor), who wished the new champion good luck and success in his private life as well as his profession.

POLO.

The final of the tournament for the Whitney Cup at Hurlingham enabled the Wild Horse team from the Argentine to show up very well. Their handicap was 22 points and Eaton's 34, the latter thus having to concede their rivals 12 goals. The English team was quite unable to do this and indeed during the sixth period the Argentine actually led 8-7 irrespective of their start, the visitors finally prevailing by 21 goals to 11. Eaton thus only scored 2 more goals than Wild Horse, the losers failing to show their usual form. An exception should be made in the case of Lord Rocksavage who was brilliant and tried hard to save his side. The trophy, which is the gift of Harry Payne Whitney, Captain of the Meadow Brook team which regained the America polo cup, was handed over to the Wild Horse Captain by Senor Dominguez, the Argentine Minister to England.

GOLF.

This is a big week for golfers, the amateur championship being decided at Westward Ho at the time of writing. The most interesting match of the early stages was between Fred, Herreshoff of the United States and D. A. M. Brown, Royal Isle of Wight. The latter has had plenty of experience, having won tournaments as far apart as Pitlochry and Penang. The American was the best driver, but the Britisher showed up well on the greens, Herreshoff no doubt missing his Schenectady putter, which is not allowed in England. A curious thing happened at the twelfth hole when Brown drove well whilst the American got into the rushes and took 4 to get level with his rival. Brown, however, found the rushes with his second and as the ball could not be discovered, the American got the hole just when he was about to give up and walk in. Brown eventually won, however, though failing soon after. The doings of J. C. Watt of Singapore and J. W. Prentice of Johannesburg attracted considerable attention. The former got as far as the the third round when he went under to P. F.C. Elwes by 3 and 2. Prentice got into the last sixteen, but failed to survive the fifth round when pitted against F. S. Bond, Royal North Devon, who was one up. Still the ex-champion of South Africa had the satisfaction of going far and making a close fight.

THE CHAMPION BEATEN.

H. H. Hilton (holder) played so well during the first four rounds, that his prospects of retaining his laurels looked very bright. He then met A. V. Hambro, whose long driving is his strong point. In his efforts to keep with his rival, Hilton got off the proper direction and he was always struggling, the seventh and ninth holes being his only successes going out. The tenth hole really settled matters, as whilst Hilton got into the rushes. Hambro was on the green with his second and he finally prevailed by 5 and 4. When the sixth round was entered on the issue was confined to six English and two Scottish players.

As the result of yesterday's play, J. Ball and A. Mitchell were left in to contest the final. The latter is a youngster who was only a year old when Ball won the first of his seven championships—23 years ago. Mitchell learnt his golf on the Ashdown forest course and started to play when five years of age. He belongs to the artisan school of golfers and is now a chauffeur in the employ of Sir Abe Bailey. He is a fine driver and shows great nerve during his matches and is sure of a bright future. Ball, of course, is known to all golfers. He never knows when he is beaten and though 5 down to M. Bond in the sixth round, he eventually won at the nineteenth.

Mitchell started well in the final to-day, invariably out-driving his rival. Sometimes this proved his undoing, Ball avoiding the bunkers better. Mitchell was two up at the turn, and 3 to the good at the end of the morning round, the scores being 80 to 83 by Ball. The latter squared the match at the 23rd. They were again all square at the 36th, Ball eventually winning at the 38th hole.

THE TURF.

The presence of the King and Queen and lovely weather helped to make the Derby Day meeting a memorable one. What the 1912 race will best be remembered for, however, is, because it fell to a grey filly for the first time in history. Tod Sloan thinks he would have won on the grey Holocauste had not the French colt broke his fetlock just before reaching Tattenham corner, this being in Flying Fox's year. Only a few fillies have won the Derby, and only two in the last thirty years, namely Signorinetta in Tagalie. The latter secured the 1,000 guineas, but subsequently finished behind (two lengths) Cylgad in the Newmarket Stakes, Lomond and White Star being among the beaten horses. It was hard luck for Sir Edward Cassel that that Cylgad had to be scratched for on Wednesday's running; the colt must have gone near winning. Tagalie's time of 2 min. 38 4-5 secs. compares favourably with the times prior to 1905. Spearmint cut the record to 2 mins. 36 4-5 secs. in that year and Lemberg reduced it to 2 mins. 35 1-5 secs. in 1910, whilst Sunstar did 2 mins 36 4-6 secs. last year, and yet some people are prone to say the cracks of the present are not equal to past fliers.

J. Reiff of America rode the winner and as he was on Orby in 1907, this makes his second success. Since 1901, when L. Reiff won on Volodyovske, six Derby winners have been ridden by American jockeys whilst Stern of France scored last year, the only British jockeys to win being K. Cannon in 1904, W. Bullock in 1908, H. Jones in 1909 and B. Dillon in 1910. This does not speak very well for the native horsemen, nor does the record of this year's Derby give one satisfaction, only twelve of the twenty jockeys being Home horsemen.

Before finishing with racing, reference may be made to the running of Long Set and Sunspot in the Craven Stakes. This is run over the last mile and 44 yards of the Derby course and admitting this to be easy the time of 1 min. 35 3-5 secs. is remakable and equal to 1 min. 33 secs. for the mile, The winner carried 134 lbs. and beat Sunspot (equal weights) by a length, all out.

CRICKET.

We have had considerable rain of late which has upset many matches and also given bowlers a chance. The big performances of the week have nearly all been by members of the attacking side, some of the feats bordering on the sensational.

Dean scored a great triumph against Kent, his 15 wickets for 108 being remarkable, even allowing for the pitch. Wolley was even more successful for Kent against Notts at Trent Bridge. He sent down 18 overs and 2 balls for 6 wickets and 21 runs, Gunn (G) being the highest scorer with 9 opposite his name. Blythe, 4 for 22 also proved deadly, whilst Wass came off for Notts with 5 for 57 and 3 for 12.

Another remarkable bowling feat was performed by Cox of Sussex in taking 8 Derbyshire wickets for 24 runs in the match at Derby.

This does not end all the big things by any means, the match between South Africa and Cambridge University providing another chance for the bowlers to shine. C. P. Carter of the visiting team proved very deadly and in the first innings of the Cantabs he secured 5 wickets for 17 runs, G. A. Faulkner also gave a taste of his ability by taking 10 wickets for 101 runs.

Blythe and Woolley had another benefit against Leicestershire the former taking 7 wickets for 9 runs, and the latter 3 for 15. Wass of Nottingham also puzzled Sussex batsmen to such an extent that he secured 6 wickets for 16 runs. Still another remarkable performance was seen at Bath where Morton of Derbyshire captured 7 Somerset wickets for 16 runs.

IN GENERAL.

H. A. Kitson of South Africa showed to advantage in the early round of the Hard Court Lawn Tennis championship at Paris, but was beaten by O. Froitzheim of Germany in the second stage, the scores being 6—1, 6—1 and 6—2. Another German in R. Kleinschreth played well against A. W. Gore, beating the English player by 3 sets to 0. One of the best struggles was seen in the second round tie between C. L. Winslow of South Africa and W. H. Laurentz of France, the visitor prevailing by 3 sets to 2.

The foreign and Colonial entries for Henley Regatta number ten, which is very satisfactory.

A schoolboy named G. W. E. Whitehead made a score of 259, not out, for Clifton College this week.

The first of the annual inter-'Varsity sailing contests were held this week when Cambridge beat Oxford by 2 races to 1.

The New Zealand runner, Hill, is going well in his training and hopes to show up well in the 1,500 and 5,000 metres at the Olympic Games.

Germans were again to the fore in the Hard Court Lawn Tennis championships at Paris yesterday. O. Kreuzer beat C. L. Winslow of South Africa after a great struggle (3 sets to 2) and Kleinschroth defeated A. H. Gobert.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA BILL.

WEIGHTY DECLARATION BY LORD CREWE.

Self-Government for India Impossible.

BILL PASSES ITS THIRD READING.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, JUNE 24.

The House of Lords, this evening, passed the third reading of the Government of India Bill.

Lord Curzon said he was informed by an expert that if the historical pictures in Government House, Calcutta, were removed to Delhi, the climate was such that they would be doomed to destruction.

His lordship severly criticized paragraph 3 in the Government of India's despatch, and called attention to the conflicting interpretations thereof given by Lord Crewe and Mr. Montagu.

It was significant that it was the latter's view which was taken in India.

Lord Crewe said that he first desired to remove misconception in India arising from proviso A clause 1, which was interpreted as placing the Governor of Bengal in a position inferior to the Governors of Bombay and Madras. He stated categorically that such was not the case. "We have been at great pains to secure equality in every way. The sole power reserved is that until a change is made with reference to the High Court in Calcutta, the Viceroy will continue to appoint the acting judges of the High Court, which now includes Behar, and for that reason it was deemed advisable that the appointments should be made by the Governor-General, not by the Governor of Bengal. That is the sole effect of the proviso."

Lord Crewe stated, with reference to the new ity of Delhi, that the site had been provi- ionally fixed as follows:—Drawing a ine about south-west by west from he Jumma Musjid, the main Government uildings and Government House will be n high ground with a park of about thousand yards between them and the walls f Delhi. Some of the buildings will be on the he edge of the park. Government House will be n higher ground further back, as it is at resent intended that the site of the camp hall not be utilised. Provision will be made r a military cantonment. There is no reason o suppose that it will be of a very extravagant ize.

Regarding the argument that the Govern- ent of India ought to have remained in Cal- tta till the new Delhi was ready, Lord Crewe called the desirability of avoiding confusion duties and responsibilities between the Gov- nment of India and the Governor of Bengal der more difficult conditions than hitherto. his view there was also a further reason for e change in the character of the reception e inhabitants of Calcutta had given to their oposals.

As regards the pictures, though he would dly listen to any representations, he would ink that the dry, clear atmosphere of Delhi uld be better for them than the atmosphere Calcutta.

A STRONG REPUDIATION.

With regard to Lord Curzon's criticisms the despatch, he would venture to that if he could collect the various sions to the subject in the speeches of eroys and Secretaries of State, "We would en find expression of hopes that with the wth of education and sense of responsibility, re influence and actual power might be ced in the hands of local Governments and dies than is possible at present."

"There is," he continued, "a certain political ool in India of Indians altogether free from taint of disloyalty who, while agreeing that ia must remain under British rule, look ward to something approaching the self- ernment enjoyed by the Dominions.

'I say quite frankly I see no future for India those lines. I think the experiment one possible to try. Consequently, it is my y, standing here as Secretary of State for ia, to repudiate altogether that reading of despatch, which implies anything of the d, or that it is the hope or goal of the policy His Maiesty's Ministers or the present vernment of India.

'I cannot put the matter more forcibly. I do complain that some men hold this ideal, ch is a revolutionary one, though not in an ous sense, of desire to break up the British pire, but I can only say that I hold it in no e myself."

ord Crewe continued: "I do think it is our y to encourage every reasonable and possi- want or desire on the part of the inhabitants India to participate in further management heir own affairs. I am sure Lord Curzon er attempted to discourage the aspirations he Indian people for greater opportunities ork in the public services."

ord Cromer said that he welcomed the ement that whatever concessions were made he future there was no intention to release paramount hold on India.

ord Curzon said that they now had a per- y clear statement from the Secretary of e. It was a most emphatic and most un- akeable repudiation of the interpretation ed on the sentence in the despatch in stion.

THE BUDGET SURPLUS.

ONE MILLION FOR THE NAVY.

Five Millions to Redeem National Debt.

LOAN FOR DEVELOPMENT OF UGANDA.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, JUNE 24.

In the House of Commons, to-day, Mr. Lloyd George, speaking on the Budget resolutions, reminded the House that there were two contingencies with regard to the disposal of the surplus of £6,500,000. When he made his Budget statement, the first contingency was whether the coal strike would cause a loss of revenue in consequence of decreased consumption. He was able to say that such was the buoyancy of our trade that the estimates of the revenue given at the beginning of the year would be well within the mark, and there would probably be a margin. Consequently, it would not be necessary to draw upon the revenue at all to meet the ravages of the strike. The other contingency was a possible increase of the demands of the Admiralty upon the Exchequer.

Mr. Churchill had stated quite clearly that he based his estimates upon the assumption that the German Navy Law would remain unaltered. There was a Bill before the Reichstag at the time for very considerable additions to the provision made by the old Navy Law. Since then the Bill had become an Act of Parliament. It was no longer a contingency, but a fact with which we were confronted. This new law provided for additions spread over six years, a Naval programme amounting in the aggregate to ten millions sterling. Mr. Churchill would in due course, submit his supplementary estimates. It was not for him to anticipate Mr. Churchill's statement, and he only referred to it so far as was necessary to explain the financial statment, which he was now making. This year, the additional sum, for which Mr. Churchill would ask, would not exceed a million, but further heavy payments would fall due in subsequent years as a result of the programme, which Mr. Churchill had found it necessary to outline. That left a balance of £5,500,000 undisposed of.

There was a new item of expenditure he proposed to recommend to the House. It had reference to the expansion and development of the resources of East Africa. Uganda and the Colonial Office were pressing the Exchequer for an advance for the further development of that exceedingly rich country. He had recommended a year or two ago that a portion of the surplus should be expended on the extension of the railways of Uganda and the Protectorate and for the construction of a deep-water pier and jetty. There was no doubt at all about the enormous possibilities of that great country. (cheers). There was an increase from year to year of the products which were coming from that quarter, especially cotton and wheat.

COTTON PRODUCTION.

It was undoubtedly to the interest of Great Britain to assist every new cotton-producing country. The lesson we had in the shortage from America last year of the injurious effect on our cotton industry showed that it was a a dangerous thing to rely exclusively on one particular source of supply for one of our most important industries.

Having given figures with regard to the exports of cotton from Uganda, in recent years, Mr. Lloyd George said that this year it was expected there would be 105,000 cwts exported from Uganda. Last year for the first time, there were exports from the Protectorate. The railroads, steamboats and piers were quite inadequate for the development of that new source of supply. There were reports to the Colonial Office of products rotting on wharves and platforms for lack of carrying capacity and storing room. They wanted a large number of engines, carriages and stores, also the development of roads, especially in the district of Lake Kioga. That was one of the most promising districts in the whole Empire for cotton growing. He was told that owing to the lack of road accommodation natives could not bring their produce to the Lake. The natives were much discouraged because, having produced cotton under the stimulus of great promises, they found it very disappointing that they could not get their cotton away. It was proposed there should be an advance to the Colonial Office of half-a-million at a fairly remunerative rate of interest. The rate had not yet been settled, but he thought that the rate charged on the last loan was 3½ per cent. with one per cent. sinking fund.

The remaining five millions would be devoted to redemption of the debt. The total reduction of debt by the present Government, including the five millions, would be £78,184,000. He asked as a matter of fair play, that when comments were made about the price of consols, adverse to Government, the figures of the debt should be given as well.

SMALL GOVERNMENT MAJORITY.

LONDON, JUNE 25.

The feature of the debate on Mr. Lloyd George's announcement was that a certain number of Radicals criticised the further expenditure on the Navy and the Colonial Loan.

Mr. Wedgwood (Liberal), objected to the taxpayers' money being taken to benefit the landlords in Nyasaland. He would be glad to see it applied to Nigeria, where the land belonged to the Crown.

On the report stage of the Tea Duty resolution, a Unionist member, Mr. Cooper, moved the reduction of the duty by one penny in the case of tea grown in the Empire.

Mr. Masterman resisted the amendment, which "raised the tattered banner of colonial preference."

The amendment was rejected by 199 votes to 177.

The figures were greeted with Opposition cheers and by cries of "Resign."

The smallness of the majority was due to the slack attendance of Ministerialists during a week of non-controversial business. There were few Unionists about the House, but when the division was called they suddenly mustered in force, nearly bringing the Government to disaster.

All the Budget resolutions were subsequently passed, and the Finance Bill was read a first time.

SOUTH AFRICAN INDIANS.

Imigration Bill Still Unpassed.

A SECOND DISAPPOINTMENT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CAPE TOWN, JUNE 24.

Parliament has been prorogued.

The Immigration Bill has not yet been passed.

Mr. Henry S. L. Polak, the South African delegate to India, interviewed to-day by the Associated Press of India on Reuter's message from South Africa, announcing the prorogation of the Union Parliament without passing the Immigrants Restriction Bill, the second reading of which was taken a month ago, expressed great disappointment at the news. He said that this was the second Bill that General Smuts had unsuccessfully introduced in order that legal effect might be given to the provisional settlement of the passive resistance struggle last year. The 1911 Bill, which, in some respects, was not so satisfactory to the Indian community as this year's measure, was withdrawn because of the opposition of the Free State members to the Indian demand that immigrants, who passed the statutory tests applying in principle to all alike, should be free to enter and reside in the Free State. The 1912 Bill differed somewhat from its predecessor but, as orginally drafted, did not altogether satisfy the requirements of the passive resisters, whilst it deprived domiciled Indians in the other Provinces of rights actually or potentially held by them. Mr. Polak had, however, recently received communications from South Africa, indicating that General Smuts had promised to introduce amendments, satisfying the demands of the passive resisters and removing some of the most important objections of the Indians in the Coast Provinces.

Mr. Polak pointed out that this disappointing result of so much effort on both sides was probably due to General Smuts' difficulty in reconciling his obligations to the Indian community, undertaken largely at the suggestion of the Imperial and Indian Governments, with the strong objections of the Opposition, principally at the Cape, to the severity of the education test, which might be used, in the hands of arbitrary officials, with very slight responsibilities to the courts, to exclude desirable European immigration. It was not easy to adopt a test that would maintain the principle of racial equality in the statute, and at the same time safeguard South Africa from large immigration from the East. He added, however, that the incident showed the wisdom and the strength of the position taken up from the first by the Transvaal passive resisters, who had fought in order to compel the recognition of statutory racial equality and to oblige the Union Government to consult the Indian community, which was unrepresented in the Union Parliament, before introducing legislation affecting their interests.

Mr. Polak said that the present impasse meant continued anxiety for the Indian population until next year's session, when a new Bill would have to be introduced, passive resistance being, as at present, suspended. In view of their lack of success hitherto, he added, it was possible that the Union Government might adopt the alternative of settling finally the Transvaal trouble, arising out of the Registration and Immigration Laws, by introducing a measure applying only to the Transvaal, and, in that event, steps ought certainly to be taken to remedy the position of the wives of Indian residents, who had already contracted plural marriages in accordance with the provisions of the religious law. He thought, however, that this alternative was unlikely as the Government much preferred to settle the immigration problem for the whole Union once for all.

Mr. Polak pointed out that funds were now urgently necessary to enable the South African Indian community to take the utmost advantage of the delay by prosecuting an energetic campaign, both in England and South Africa, as the future of their hopes, though it was not directly touched by the Immigration Bill, largely depended upon the action taken in the immediate future, and he hoped that the Indian public would subscribe generously to a cause for the increase of Indian prestige in the Empire.

Reuter wired from Capetown on May 31st:—

In the Union Assembly, yesterday, Mr. Smuts moved the second reading of the Immigration Bill. He said it embodied the understanding reached with the Imperial Government in 1910 with regard to Asiatics. The difficulty the administration was confronted with was considerable. After much consideration the Government had decided to adopt the suggestion of the Colonial Office, which the Government of India supported, to apply the Australian education test, which could he applied so as to encourage whites and exclude Asiatics. They intended to carry out the arrangement reached with the Imperial Government to allow the entry of educated, professional Asiatics in limited numbers, while preventing an influx of Asiatics. The Imperial and Indian Governments had seen the Bill and were most anxious to see it passed. The Government also intended, at the instance of the Imperial Government, to introduce an amendment relating to Asiatics domiciled in South Africa.

DEATH OF A GRE T ARTIST.

Career of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema.

ONE CONTINUED SUCCESS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, JUNE 25.

The death is announced of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema.

Sir Laurence Alma Tadema was born o January 8, 1836 at Dronrijp, a Frisean village near leeuwarden. He was the son of Pieter Tadema, a notar, who died when he was four years old, Alma was the name of his god-father. His mother, who die in 1863, was his father's second wife and was left with a large family. It was designed that the boy shald follow his father's profession, but he had so great leaning towards arts that he was eventually sent t Antwerp, where in 1852 he entered the academy uder Gustav Wappers. Thence he passed to the 'atelief Henri (afterwards Baron) Leys. In 1859 he assted Leys in the latter's frescoes. In the thibition of Alma-Tadema's collected works at the Governor gallery in London in the iuter of 1882-1883 were two pictures which maybe said to mark the beginning and end of his fi period These were a portrait of himself, dated 52, and "A Bargain" painted in 1860. His first at success was a picture of "The Education of t Childdren of Clovis," (1861,) which was exlited at Antwerp. In the following year he receive his first gold medal at Amsterdam, "The Educati of the Children of Clovis" (three young hildren of Clovis and Clotilde practising the art of hurling the axe in the presence of their dowed mother who is training them to avenge thurder of their own parent) was one of series of Merovingian pictures, of which the fin was "Fredegonda" of 1878 (exhibited in 1880) where the dejected wife or mistress is watching from hind her curtain window the marriage of Chilperic with Galeswintha. It is perhaps in this series tl we find the painter moved by the deepest feelin and the strongest spirit of romance. One of thmost passionate of all is "Fredegonda at the death d of Pretextatus," in which the bishop, stabbed b the order of the queen, is cursing her from his ing bed. Annther distinct series is designed to re uce the life of of ancient Egypt. One of the first this series "Egyptians 3,000 years ago" was [illegible] in 1863. A profound depth of pathos is [illegible] in "The Death of the First Born," pted in 1873. Among Alma-Tadema's other able Egyptian pictures are "An Egyptian at his Docay, (1865), "The Mummy" (1867) "The Chamb ain of Sesostris (1869)" A Widow" (1873) and "Jph, Overseer of Pharoah's Granaries" (1874). On ese scenes from Frankish and Egyptian life na Tadema spent great energy and research; bthis strongest art-impulse was towards the presen on of life of ancient Greece and Rome, especiall the latter. Amongst the best known of his earlie tures of scenes from classical times are "Tarquus Superbus" (1867) "Phidias and the Elgin Mass" (1868) and "The Pyrrhic Dance" and "The ne Shop" (1869) "The Pyrrhic Dance" though otof the simplest of his compositions, stands out istinctly from them all by reason of its strng movement. "Phidias and the Elgin rbles "is the first of those glimpses of thet life of classical times of which "Hadrian in Engd, "The Sculpure Gallery" and "The Picture Gal" are later examples." "The Wine Shop" is one of s many pictures of historical genre, but marked h a more robust humour than usual. In 1863 A-Tadema married a French lady and lived at Brus till 1869, when she died leaving him a widwoer h two daughters—Laurence and Anna, both of wn afterwards made reputations—the former in literature, the latter in Art. In 1869 he sent h Brussels to the Royal Academy two pictures "a Amateur romain" and "Une Danse Parrhe" which were followed by three pictures inclug "Un Jongleur" in 1870 when he came to Lon. By this time besides his Dutch and Belgian distions he had been awarded medals at the Paris S of 1864 and the Exposition Universelle of 1867. a 1871 he married Laura Epps, an English lady talented family who under her married name won a high reputation as an artist. After arrival in London Alma-Tadema's career was of continued success. Amongst the most importa his pictures during this period were "Vin Festival" (1870), "The Picture Gallery" and " Sculpture Gallery" (1875) "An audience at Agg pa's (1876), "The Seasons (1877)"Sappho (1881) " Way to the Temple" (1883), his diploma w "Hadrian in Britain (1884) "The Apodyteri (1886) "the Woman of Amphissa." (1887) " Roses of "Heliogale' (1888), "An Earthly Paradi (1891) and "Spring" (1895). Most of his ot pictures have been small canvasses of exqui finish, like the "Gold fish" of 1900. These as w as all his works are remarkable for the way in whi flowers, textures and hard reflecting substances, li metals, pottery and especially marble, are painte His work shows much of the fine execution a brilliant colour of the old Dutch masters. By t human interest with which he imbued all his scen from ancient life he brought them within the scop of modern feeling and charmed us with gentle sent ments and playful humour. He also painted son fine portraits.

Alma-Tadima became a naturalized Briti subject in 1873 and was knighted on the occasion of Queen Victoria's eighty-first birthday 1899. He was made an associate of the Roya Academy in 1876, and a Royal Academicia in 1879. In 1907 he was included in the Order o Merit, he became knight of the Order Pour le Merit of Germany (arts and sience division); of Leopold Belgium; of the Dutch Lion: of St Michael of Bavaris, of the Golden Lion of Nassau, and the Crown of Prussia; an officer of the Ligeon of Honour France; a member of the Royal Academies o Munich. Berlin, Madrid and Vienna. He received a gold medal at Berlin in 1872; and a grand meda at Berlin in 1874 a first class medal at Paris International Exhibition of 1889 and 1900. He had also become a member of the Royal Society of Water colours.

THE CHINA LOAN.

No Political Reference in the Agreement.

THE BANKERS' DISCRETION.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.

LONDON, JUNE 25.

Reuter learns that as a result of the care taken to eliminate everything of a political character, the Chinese Loan Agreement contains no reference to the special interests of Russia and China, but it cannot be ascertained whether the reservations of Russia and Japan in this respect are still maintained or whether they have been withdrawn.

While the general idea is to lend £60,000,000 sterling, the groups are in no way bound to that sum. When, how, and to what extent advances will be made, will depend upon how far, in the opinion of the bankers, they are warranted by the situation in China. In any case, the loan will probably be spread over a period of five years.

INDIAN RAILWAY FINANCE.

Notable Suggestion by Sir Francis Spring.

A "GREAT RAILWAY TRUST."

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, JUNE 25.

Sir Francis Spring, Engineer-Chairman of the Madras Port Trust, in the course of a lengthy article in the Madras Mail, to-day, regarding the financing of branch railways required in South India, writes.—

"Two propositions may surely be accepted in regard to them; first, that private capital for their construction will be most welcome if by any means it may be tempted to offer itself, and second, that there will be no compulsion on the part of the Railway Board to make them of higher standard than is necessary to carry the traffic believed likely to have to be handled." After discussing these propositions Sir Francis concludes:—"I now return to the larger problem of the best manner in which the funds may be tempted out of the pockets of capitalists for investment in Indian railways. Here in India we have what, I suppose, must be about the biggest business proposition on the globe—some 300 millions of pounds worth of railways, more or less, paying a solid five per cent or close to it and steadily growing more remunerative. Ten years ago I threw out the suggestion—I know it was looked on by those concerned with Railway finance at headquarters as a wild and a revolutionary suggestion,—of a great Indian Railway Trust. The finances of the trust were to be self-contained and the property to be administered by it was to consist of the whole of the railways in India, present and future. Except in so far as it necessarily must control all such semi-public bodies, as in fact in a different degree it controls the Madras Port Trust, Government were to divest themselves of their railway property and obligations, capital revenues, interest, annuities and everything, in favour of the Trust which. of course, under the necessary degree of Government control was to raise loans on the security of the actual railways themselves and of their net earnings.

All money raised by the working companies to which the several railways are leased would rank for guarantee, and surplus profits as might be arranged when their leases fell in. My belief is that the capitalist and the promoter of Europe have a profound lack of belief in any entity called "government," They either believe, or it suits them to make would-be investors believe, that the Government of India are exceptionally liable to the effects of political cataclysms. If they happen to believe the same sort of the thing about, say, Brazil, they take care to make themselves safe in their rate of interest and in their concessions. But my belief is that loans placed on the market on the basis of an actual tangible property whose development from the beginning is clearly indicated in the Railway Board's annual report would be viewed by promoters and by investors from quite another standpoint and that a great Trust of the sort suggested would find it far easier than Government find it, to attract to this country the capital necessary for its adequate equipment with railways and for the adequate supply to such railways of the necessities for a growing transport. I shall probably be reminded that security based on the revenues of a country as a whole is necessarily more effective for loan purposes than if based on a part of that revenue. But I contend that human nature is not always absolutely logical and that investors are much more likely to lend on a tangible and definite network of actual visible railways than on the promissory notes of any Government."

POPULATION OF CALCUTTA

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, JUNE 25.

Curious facts with regard to the population of Calcutta are brought to light by the report of the last census. The total population is given as 896.067, of which 607,674 are males or more than two males to each female. Another peculiar feature is that only 22 per cent of the population are children under 15, whereas in Bengal the percentage is 38. The growth in the population in the last ten years has been 48,271, of which figure 41,701 are males of working age, 15 to 50 years. This is due to the large immigration into the city of working men. This is further shown by the fact that during the last ten years there have been in the city 287,673 deaths, but only 160,485 births, leaving a balance of over 126,000 to be made up, so that there must have been at the lowest estimate 174,459 immigrants. The effect of this on the death rate, it is pointed out, is considerable, and the true death rate for 1911 should have been 31·5 not 27·2, the figures returned. In the same way the birth rate is affected, and should have been 28·1 instead of as returned 21·7. The whole increase of population in the last ten years has been among the Hindus every other class having diminished. The increase among Hindus amounts to 57,649. The number of European British subjects has not increased.

THE MERGUI CASE.

Mr. Andrew's Evidence in the Defamation Suit.

A NEWSPAPER ATTACK.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

RANGOON, JUNE 25.

There began to-day, before Mr. A. S. Cooke, District Magistrate, Rangoon, the case in which Mr. S. T. Andrew, I. C. S., Deputy Commissioner of Mergui, charges Mr. C. Arnold, Editor of the Burma Critic with defamation.

Examined by Mr. Rutledge Mr. Andrew said he joined the service in Burma in 1899 and was transferred to the Mergui District in January, 1910, and had acted as Deputy Commissioner and District Magistrate of that district since that time when he arrived at Mergui. The sub-divisional officer at Victoria Point was Mr. A. W. Buchanan. He believed Mr. Buchanan was sent there in September, 1909. The District Superintendent of Police at the time was Mr. Macdonald, and Mr. Finnie joined some time in April, 1910, in that capacity. The first complaint the complainant got about the girl Aniah was a demi-official letter dated the 3rd of July, 1911, from Mr. Buchanan. The complainant indentified Mr. Buchanan's letter. He also received from Mr. Buchanan an anonymous petition in Burmese endorsed on July 4, 1911. Mr. Buchanan suggested that the District Superintendent of Police should be sent down to enquire into the case and witness handed the document to Mr. Finnie who went down almost immediately to Victoria Point and held an inquiry into the case.

The complainant started his inquiry on August 21, 1911, and on August 23rd passed orders in the case.

His attention was called to a leading article in the Burma Critic entitled "Grave scandal in Tenasserim." He had no doubt in his mind that the article referred to his conduct of the case. His attention was subsequently drawn to two articles of April 28th, 1912, entitled "Mockery of British Justice." That was on May 10th on his return from Victoria Point. Those articles contained imputations against him as a man and magistrate. He had seen the libels repeated, almost verbatim, in a paper called United Burma. Then he received an Urdu paper called the Comrade which he read hurriedly. It contained the libel with comments thereon. Witness identified the copy of United Burma, dated May 5th, 1912, entitled "The White Peril. He had not got the copy of the Comrade but had seen it. The above were two instances publication of the libel. They were sent to him by various people.

After cross-examination of the complainant the hearing was adjourned to Thursday.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

THE HIGH COURT.

Scathing Criticism of Another Pleader.

"CONTEMPTIBLE DELINQUINCIES."

THE Acting Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Batchelor heard an appeal preferred by Annaji Narayen Despande, a pleader of Athni, in which he claimed certain lands from the defendants Appana bin Sattappa and others.

The appeal was from the decision of the District Judge of Belgaum. In the course of his judgment the Judge observed that he could not pass over without comment the highly improper manner in which the suits had been conducted on behalf of the plaintiff, by Mr. Karandikar. That from one or two stray insinuatious let fall by him it was clear that Mr. Karandikar's behaviour in court had been designed to be as offensive as possible. It was, the Judge said, hard to believe that any person gifted with inttelligence could entertain any hope of success by such conduct. It was none the less true that Mr. Karandikar's advisers made it appear that the court took a personal pleasure and interest in enquiring into the former's contemptible delinquencies as a pleader.

The learned Judge then proceeded to note the various methods employed by Mr. Karandikar. He went on to say that Mr. Karandikar's behavious during the cross-examination of his client by Mr. Agrekar merited the severest condemnation. His interruptions, says the Judge, were incessant and, almost withouts exception, vexatious. In re-examination of his client Mr. Karandikar deliberately elicited an untruthful account of the steps taken to produce the attendance of certain witnesses. In conclusion, the Judge remarked that Mr. Karandikar never made any serious attempt to put his case in a straightforward manner before the court and that his conduct was characterised by duplicity throughout.

With regard to the plaintiff's claim, the District Judge held that his title derived from the fourth defendant was invalid and he dismissed the suits with costs.

The Chief Justice, in delivering judgment, said, the appeal had been exhaustively and carefully argued by the learned pleaders engaged in the case.

With regard to the conduct of Mr. Karandikar, the pleader, his lordship remarked that there was a deliberate attempt made by a pleader to take advantage of an illiterate woman's necessitous position. If the pleader, as was argued in his favuor, was taking all the risk on his sholder by relieving the woman in her necessitous condition, he should have helped her in a more straightforward manner than he had done, judging from the evidence before the Court. His lordship added that they were not trying Mr. Karandikar, the pleader-plaintiff for his professional misconduct, but in passing his lordship would like to say that a pleader entering into a transaction like that in question and acting in the way he had done raised against him presumptions of conduct which must weigh against him heavily when the court is asked to decide a question of title in his favour.

When a pleader is entering into a transaction like that the court will certainly, having regard to the conditions in the mofussil, look to the status and mental condition of the party, with whom he is dealing and analyse and scrutinise very closely the surrounding circumstances of the transactions.

In dealing with an illiterate woman a pleader in his position should not have left in ambiguity all important points dealing with the transaction.

As the learned District Judge had gone into all the cogent circumstances and the evidence in the case it was sufficient for his lordship to say that he fully agreed with his appreciation of the evidence and conclusions arrived at. Those conclusions were fully supported by the facts noticed by him, that the appellant-pleader's demeanour in the witness box was by no means of a satisfactory character and honest. Therefore having regard to the surrounding circumstances of the transactions, to the oral testimony, and the demeanour of the appellant, the only conclusion which could be safely drawn was that at which the learned Judge after a patient trial had arrived.

The decree of the lower court was confirmed with costs.

Mr. Justice Batchelor, in delivering a separate judgment, said that he entirely agreed with the opinion expressed by his learned colleague.

KHOJA SUCCESSION.

Yesterday Mr. Justice Beaman disposed of a case in which Hasan Ali Mowledina sued the executor and executrix of the last will and testament of Karmali Mowledina, a Khoja Mahomedan inhabitant of Bombay, to recover a deposit of Rs. 9,000 from the estate of the late testator, and a legacy of equal amount given to him under the will.

After hearing counsel, his lordship delivered his judgment and in doing so said, that before dealing with the substantial objection taken by the executor, his lordship wished to observe, that Sec. 112 of the Probate and Administration Act appeared to him to be unfortunately worded. If it really meant what it said, the practical consequences of applying its strictly and logically would be absurd, for however just a legatee's claim might be, no court could decree it upon an incomplete title. Therefore as long as the executors chose to withhold their assent, it was difficult to find any remedy of which the legatee might effectually avail himself. His lordship could not bring himself to believe that the law really meant to leave legatees at the mercy of capricious executors. It certainly appeared to his lordship that the legislature in this respect might with advantage alter or add to the words of this section and also the section which corresponded with it in the Indian Succession Act. Referring to the main defence of executors his lordship said, that he had already observed that as far as this country was concerned the doctrine of satisfaction was exploded. Section 164 of the Succession Act had expressly abolished the doctrine of satisfaction. Although that Act did not apply to Hindus, Mahomedans and Bhuddists, it could not be doubled that it was the intention of the legislature to announce what they considered to be a generally correct principle of interpretation universally applicable unles overridden by some special provision of local laws and usages. If Khojas were really to be treated as Hindus for the purposes of making wills, as well as in all matter of succession and inheritance, the will in dispute could be regarded as that of a Hindu. His lordship said that he had had this point repeatedly before him during the last five years he had been sitting on the original side, and he had expressed as his opinion that it had never yet been authoritatively, and finally, decided that for all testamentary purposes a Khoja Mahomedan was to be treated as though he were a Hindu and governed by the Hindu law. His lordship referred to a decision of Sir Lawrence Jenkins in I. L. R. 29 Bombay 148, in which that eminent and learned Chief Justice held that in the Bombay Presidency Khoja Mahomedans were governed in all testamentary matters by the Hindu law, this opinion. This lordship said, was based on the assent of counsels of longstanding and experience, who were arguing that case, and he could never regard it as an authoritative and final decision of the question. For a question so important and so vitally affecting the interest of a large, wealthy and influential community would hardly be properly decided merely upon the admissions of counsels, made probably for their own convenience in the argument of a particular case. The executors were not entitled in one breath to deny the applicability of the principles enunciated in sec. 164 of the Indian Succession Act and also the applicability of the general rule of evidence.

His lordship adhering to the views expressed by him in Pestonji Mistry versus Framji Billimoria, 12 Bombay L. R. 863, had no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the plaintiff was entitled to the legacy of Rs. 9,000 and also to the deposit of Rs. 9,000.

A decree was passed accordingly. Costs of all parties were ordered to come from the estate.

INAM LANDS AND THEIR RENTS.

In the High Court, Mr. Justice Beaman and Mr. Justice Heaton disposed of an appeal in which one Swamirao Srinivas sued Padappa Bhujangrao, Inamdar of Wadwadgi, in the Bijapur district, and five others to recover certain arrears of rent due for lands, over which Padappa asserted his title, relying on a Privy Council decision of 1900.

Mr. G. G. Nadkarni, instructed by Mr. Gokhale, appeared for the plantiff-appellant, and Mr. Patkar appeared for the respondent-defendants.

Mr. Nadkarni chiefly contended that the lower courts had erred in not upholding the plantiff's contention that the defendant is not the owner of the lands in suit, and is barred by res-judicata by the decision of the Privy Council in a former case between the parties. Mr. Patkar relied on the Privy Council decision itself, and upon the findings of the lower court which were in his favour.

Mr. Justice Beaman in delivering his judgment, said that the plaintiff claimed to be the owner of certain Inam villages in virtue of gifts and mortgages made and executed by the two predecessors in title of the defendant Padappa, and later on ratified by Padappa himself. The Privy Council had decided in favour of Padappa, holding merely that he was entitled to all the Inam rights in the said villages and that alienations by his predecessors in title were only valid for the duration of their lives, so that the possession of the plaintiff was adverse to the right of Padappa. His lordship, however, remarked that what was at issue in subsequent suits between the parties was the title to the lands, in respect of which the rents were claimed. The lower courts had rightly or wrongly affirmed Swamirao's title in previous suits to collect rent. The question was resjudicata, and therefore although it might be true that a judgment against a tenant compelling him to pay rent for one year was not necessarily resjudicata, his liabilities to pay rent in subsequent years depended upon the allegation either that his landlord's title had determined in the interval or that other contractual relations had been established between the parties. The real dispute in these suits was payment of rent and not of title.

The appeals were allowed, and the decree of the lower court was reversed, and the plaintiff's claim in each of the six suits decreed with costs throughout.

The Magistrate framed a charge against the accused and Mr. Davar, counsel for the defence commenced the cross-examination of Gulamhusein Issaji on whose complaint the police undertook the prosecution.

The complainant in his cross-examination admitted having to pay a large debt, saying that he had already paid off four lakhs to his creditors, and hoped to pay off the remaining two and a half lakh. His monthly income was about Rs. 8,000 which was materially used in making payments towards his debts.

The case was adjourned.

STORY OF A DIAMOND NECKLACE.

Rao Bahadhur Chunilal H. Setalvad, also had before him the case in which Dayanath Kedarnath Khote, a Hindu, was charged with criminal breach of trust in respect of a diamond necklace worth Rs. 2,500, the property of one Gordhandas Peraj, a disamond merchant.

The complaint was that the accused had obtained the jewellery on approval and afterwards pledged it.

The defence was that the accused had lost money in speculation. His father had left him a lakh of rupees. He asked for a loan of two or three thousand rupees and the complainant gave him the necklace saying that he should either sell or mortgage the same. The accused accordingly pledged it.

The Magistrate framed a charge against the accused and adjourned the case for further inquiry.

TWO PIGS AND A VOW.

The Assistant Superintendent of Markets yesterday before Mr. P. H. Dastur, charged the wife of John Dooming with an offence under the Municipal Act. It was alleged that the accused brought into the city from Kurla two pigs intended for human food without the written permission of the Commissioner. The offence was that the accused brought the beasts to be presented to a Convent as she had made a vow to that effect. The Magistrate acquitted the accused and ordered the pigs to be returned to her.

A CONFIDENCE TRICK.

A case of cheating was disposed of by Mr. P. H. Dastur yesterday, when Inspector Salway charged Mahadoo Krishna (30), a Hindu, with having induced Bhagoo Mahadeoji to deliver him porperty valued at ten annas. On Monday the accused went to the shop of the complainant, who is a charcoal dealer, and purchased six annas worth of charcoal. He left word with the shopkeeper to send the coal with ten annas to his house where he would pay a rupee. The complainant went with the charcoal and the accused took him upstairs where the ten annas were given. The accused then tried to run away. The complainant chased him and arrested him with the money. The accused did not live in the house to which the charcoal was taken and he simply ordered the coal with a view to cheat.

The accused pleaded guilty and admitted two previous convictions for the same offence. He was sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment.

A SUSPECTED BURGLAR.

Baboolal Laxminarayan, (18), a Hindu, was sentenced to three months' rigorous imprisonment by Mr P. H. Dastur for having in his possession, without lawful excuse, an implement for house breaking. Inspector Jone prosecuted.

AN AMAZING OFFENCE.

Before Mr. P. H. Dastur, yesterday, Mahomed Migale (40), a Mahomedan hawker, was charged with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to Alloo Jan Mahomed the 12th instant.

The complaint alleged he had a quarrel with the accused at a woman's house where he had gone to fetch his clothes. The accused and others waited for him there and the accused stabbed him (complaint) in the stomach. He fell down and a sepoy came and arrested the accused and two others. He was then taken to hospital, where he was under treatment for only a week.

In giving judgment his Worship said the complainant had a woman in his protection who seemed to have discard him. On the 12th instant he went to fetch his clothes from her and when she was about to hand them over the complainant stabbed himself in his stomach, called a sepoy and charged the accused (a woman) and another with the offence of causing hurt to him. All the evidence in this case showed that it was a self-inflicted wound and the fact that he was under treatment for a very short-time showed that the wound could not have been got by another striking him with some force.

The accused was ordered to be discharged and the complainant was directed to pay the accused Rs. 30 as compensation for bringing a false charge against him and having him wrongfully arrested and kept in custody.

MATHERAN HOTEL CASE.

Sessions Trial Adjourned for a Month.

B[illegible] Mr. J. D. Dikshit, Sessions Judge of Tha[illegible] yesterday, Pirojshaw H. Taskar, who was committed to the Sessions by Major Murison, First Class Magistrate of Matheran, was brought up on a charge of criminal misappropriation of about Rs. 58.

Mr. B. Pradhan, Public Prosecutor of the Kolaba District, appeared to prosecute; the accused was defended by Mr. M. M. Karbhari, pleader.

The accused was tried on the complaint of Mr. K. [illegible]hichgur and Mr. Kasim Mahomed Mitha, proprietors of the Gymkhana Hotel, Matheran.

The Public Prosecutor applied for an adjournment on the ground that many of the witnesses were absent. He said that two of the witnesses had sent telegrams stating they were ill. He asked the Court to send a second summons to the witnesses, and to issue warrants against the rest. He mentioned that one of the witnesses, Mrs. Mu[illegible], was in Madras, and was going to England in [illegible] Another of the witnesses, Mrs. Willmott, had gone to England, but he did not think that her presence would be necessary, as the evidence of Mr. Willmott would serve his purpose.

Mr. Karbhari said that he left the matter entirely in the hands of His Honour, but he would like to point out that the accused was committed to this Court on the 17th of May last.

Mr. Pradhan asked for a month's adjournment.

Mr. Karbhari said a month's adjournment was a very long one, having regard to the fact that the charge had been hanging over the head of his client for more than a month.

His Honour adjourned the case to the 22nd of July, observing that there was no other alternative but to do so, as the service of the summons and the warrants would take some time.

THE SECOND CASE.

Mr. Karbhari then applied to Mr. G. K. Kale, Assistant Sessions Judge, to whom the case of [illegible] Bagar, assistant manager of the hotel, is committed, for an adjournment of that case to the 24th of [illegible]. He said that in this case the only material witness was Mr. Willmott, and that gentleman had, in the other case, sent a telegram stating that he was ill. [illegible] the pleader apprehended that he might not [illegible] the court on the 1st of July, the day on which the case was to be heard.

Mr. Pradhan, the Public Prosecutor, said that the witness's illness did not seem to be very serious and he might turn up on the day fixed.

His Honour said that as there was time, he would cause inquiries to be made and then inform the parties, if the case would be taken on that date.

Mr. Karbhari said that the charge was in respect of a paltry sum of Rs. 2-8, and if Mr. Pradhan, under the circumstances, entered a 'nolle prosequi', [illegible] trouble would end.

Mr. Pradhan said that his learned friend must not expect anything of the kind from him.

The matter then dropped.

[illegible]t. Walace Hartley, the Titanic's bandmaster, [illegible] estate of the gross value of £656.

FOOTBALL IN BOMBAY.

Y. M. C. A. Success in the Harwood League.

Y. M. C. A. (2): BYCULLA M. I. (1).

THE game on the Cooperage last evening was neither exciting nor interesting, but it showed that if the Y. M. C. A. forwards were properly trained and led they would be a very hot lot indeed. Throughout the game they were all over their opponents and on the play should have had a five goals victory. As it was they just scraped in their points by the odd goal in three. After play, which began punctually, had been in progress for three minutes McDermott scored for the Young Men, Jackson equalizing half way through the period. Shortly before the interval Major was penalised for a bad foul and McDermott scored a second goal.

Nothing was scored in the second half, the game ending—

Y. M. C. A. .... 2 goals
Byculla M. I. .... 1 goal

The teams were :—

Y. M. C. A.—Goal, Doctor; backs, Hewitt and Hildreth; half-backs, Lamb, Knight and Dyce; forwards, D'Souza, Ranganardhan, Davis, McDermott and Ivers.

BYCULLA MECHANIC INSTITUTE.—Goal, I. Smith; backs, Ridley and Brian; half-backs, Major Gardiner and Topper; forwards, Peel, Mungavin, Jackson, Molyneux and Alcock.

Referee.—Pte Egan.

THE CALCUTTA LEAGUE.

All interested in local civilian football feel they are at the testing point, writes a contemporary, and there appears to be very fervid interest permeating all ranks that much must be accomplished to recover the civilian European clubs' reputation, especially after the lamentable set-back of last season. Calcutta, who won the shield last in 1906, has the best chance of winning amongst the civilian teams, and when Michie returns to the half-back line the "Reds" will have out a team that will want some beating. Of the new men, the most notable acquisition is that of Fenn, a forward, who has figured very prominently in recent matches, and, if Karr is included in the front rank, the attack should be as good as the supporters of the club could wish to get. Karr is a very promising player, and although Chesterton and Jenkins have fallen off a bit, one out of the latter two will have to be retained. A. N. Stewart, the new custodian has improved and now that Victor Sherman has returned to Calcutta, the club's doings in the coming tournament will be watched with the keenest of interest, and I expect the C. F. C. to go one better should they meet the Black Watch and the Middlesex in the knock out tournament next month.

Dalhousie have only annexed the Shield once, viz., in 1905, and the old Trades' Club have done nothing remarkable since; but their supporters are confidently looking forward to better things in the knock-out tournament. Dalhousie have lost a good man in Bennett, the old right winger, who has gone Home. Davey is playing for Calcutta, but McLaren, Todd and Pearse, who have joined the club this year are all shaping well, and now that Hurlston has returned to the ranks, the Dals, when at full strength, could be depended upon in holding their own against the best local combination. A. Newson in goal, and a B. R. C. Lindsay as centre-forward is all that the old Trades' Club want.

The Customs have again gone back to their old habits and after playing so brilliantly against the Black Watch on Saturday, they lost to the Rangers by three goals to nil. This was owing to rotten shooting on the part of the forwards; and later, owing to some of their men in the defence losing heart. Falloon and Manuk are much too light and young to play in senior football, and why Echlin, Lovegrove, and Drinkwater have not been invited to play is surprising. Joe Anderson is very good until he is beaten, but once an opponent has scored through a fault of his, Anderson loses his head and can never be depended upon to recover himself.

Alexander is another player who shows temper, and it is a pity that these two do not follow Hyland's example. The Customs should, on the amount of attacking, have beaten the Rangers by three clear goals, but in the end and inside the last five or six minutes got three goals chalked against them. Never have I seen a match of this description end in such an unexpected fashion. Often have I seen a team which has been playing the better football and doing the larger share of attacking, having in the end lost by the narrowest of margins, but to have three goals registered against a team who had done all the attacking inside the last five minutes is something new for Calcutta football. The Customs, after Wednesday's defeat, will naturally find no backers, for one day they may beat quite a powerful combination, as they have on previous occasions done, while on another evening they may go down to teams like Chandernagore or Sova Bazar—so inconsistent is their form. But I have noticed, times out of number, that too flattering reports in the papers intoxicate the Customs' people, and when a thing looks rather soft for the Riversiders, they and their supporters generally have to go Home with aching hearts.

The Rangers are by no means a great team; they do not play scientific football, but their forwards, especially Lindsay, Smart, and Keeling, will never give up for the sake of trying. Lindsay, who is a nephew of the great old Dalhousie player, is following in the footsteps of his uncle—a man, who in his day had won many a battle for his old club. The young Lindsay at present has no great control over the ball, but he is speedy, hard working, and can shoot almost as hard and straight as did his uncle. Yes, Lindsay has a great future in front of him, and the Rangers are lucky in securing so brilliant a young player. Smart is erratic, but Smart like Lindsay has speed, works like a Trojan and when he gets in a straight one, the opposite custodian has something to handle. Keeling is another younster who is coming on wonderfully well, and with Cody, Durant, S. Lawton and Fitzpatrick in the team, the Rangers, although lacking in the finer points of the game, will fight hard to the bitter end, no matter who their opponents are.

Of the three matches on Saturday, the one on the Customs' ground, between the Home team and the Black Watch, was the best and most exciting game. The Scotch team were most lucky in winning their two goals, being from two penalty kicks—both for hands—one against Alexander, and the other against Hyland. The referee erred in his second decision, and but for this, the Customs would have shared points. The Home team's goal by Galbraith was the result of fine combination on the part of Hyland, Williamson and the scorer. The game was a most evenly contested one and a draw of one all would have been a most satisfactory result. The Scotch team will have to do better if their supporters expect them to annex the Shield.

The same evening, on the Dalhousie ground, Calcutta (minus the brothers Sherman) drew with the Trades' Club, the score being two all. Calcutta were unlucky not to win, and at the "Reds" were not at full strength, on recent from the C. F. C. should go very near winning the Shield.

The Rangers beat the Y. M. C. A. by three goals to one, Lindsay, Little, and Smart scoring, and the green jerseys are a team that may upset any calculation.

On Monday, Calcutta were unlucky in not beating the Middlesex for the "Reds" had decidedly more of the attacking; but Piggot, one of the finest goalies seen in Calcutta in recent years, was a thorn in the way of the C. F. C. Piggot brought off many marvellous saves, and but for him Calcutta must have won. The game resulted in a goalless draw.

The same evening the Y. M. C. A. beat the Garrison Artillery—last year's League champions—by two goals to nil.

On Wednesday, the Customs, after having all the best of the game against the Rangers, eventually lost by three goals to nil: a result that came as a great surprise. Had some of Customs players not sulked like silly school girls, they might have prevented the second and third goals being netted against them. However, it must be admitted that although their shooting was most erratic, still the Riversiders were most unfortunate in not scoring.

On the C. F. C. ground, the same evening, the Middlesex beat the R. G. A. by two goals to one.

For the England and Scotland match this evening, Mr. H. E. Medlycott has been working hard, and as the teams are very evenly matched, and the Scotch have this season many fine players to pick from, the game will be worth watching.

The Ashanulla Shield, in connection with the Bengal Gymkhana, is being run this year by Prince Victor of Cooch Behar, and the competition should terminate very satisfactorily.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS.

Throughout life the blood is continually streaming through the kidneys to be filtered and purified. When it REACHES the kidneys it is dark and poisonous; when it LEAVES the kidneys it is the purest blood in the body; all its impurities have been filtered out by the kidneys.

But when the kidneys are weak and sluggish they fall behind with their great work and the poisons left in the blood make you feel dull and miserable, you are always tired and drowsy, and you soon begin to get backache and bladder disorders, or some of the other symptoms mentioned above.

A thorough course of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills gently leads the kidneys back to health, and when the kidneys are well, the urinous poisons that cause so much sickness and disease in men and women CANNOT remain in the system. That is how Doan's Pills cure the actual CAUSE of kidney and bladder troubles.

"A chill weakened my kidneys, and I began to suffer from gravel and backache," says Mr. G. W. Storey, of 84, Higher Temple Street, Chorlton, Manchester, England. "Sharp pains darted through my back and loins, and I could hardly move.

"After years of suffering I used Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, and they healed the kidneys and gradually cured the bladder trouble. Now I am feeling first-rate. (Signed) Geo. W. Storey."

SEVERAL MONTHS LATER Mr. Storey said he was still keeping in excellent health.

The Political Agent of Tippera, Capt. Murray, has left Agartola. A salute of 11 guns was fired on his departure. Although the Political Agents are entitled to a salute of 11 guns, it was never before accorded to any other in Tippera State, writes a local correspondent to the "Statesman." Captain Murray insisted upon it. The minister had to go to Darjeeling to settle the matter, and other ceremonials to be observed during the visits of Government officials to Tippera.

A branch of the Society for Promoting Scientific Knowledge has been started at Kapurthala. The branch owes its inception to the efforts of Dr. G. L. Batta, Chief Medical Officer, who has undertaken to hold regular classes for instruction in home hygiene, and to carry out the medical inspection of students on the reopening of the college after the summer vacation. Dr. Batta has already done work of a similar kind in connection with the Society at Lahore.

A correspondent of the "Sind Gazette," Karachi, calls attention to the expense and inconvenience to which pilgrims and persons leaving India may be put by the fact that forms of certificates of nationality and applications for passports are only obtainable at the Commissioner's office, a visit to which involves both delay and additional expense. He suggests that the authorities might supply the office of the Deputy Collector and the local presses with these forms in order that they may be more easily obtainable by the public.

Some of the prominent Jaghirdars and Zemindars of the Sukkur district, met at Sukkur on Sunday last, to discuss the Cess Bill, which Mr. Bhurgri, has introduced in the Bombay Legislative Council, to levy a cess of a quarter of an anna on every rupee, assessable to ordinary land revenue on all the Mahomedan landlords in Sind for the purpose of promoting the education of Mahomedans in the province. The Hon'ble Mr. Bhurgri, in company of Hon. Allahando Shah who was touring in Upper Sind, in connection with his Bill, and happened to be at Sukkur on that day, attended the meeting. Mr. Bhurgri explained the aims and objects of his proposed bill and the benefits it would confer upon the Mahomedan community if passed. After him, many others spoke and it was unanimously resolved to thank Mr. Bhurgri, for his patriotic and unselfish efforts in promoting the bill and "to request the Commissioner in Sind to get the bill passed as soon as possible."

From the fact that at two recent meetings at Simla, under the presidency of H. E. Lady Hardinge, the subject of a Medical Service for Women in India occupied the important place on the agenda of both, it seems probable that the movement which was inaugurated some time ago, and which has had the hearty support of those most deeply interested in the needs of Indian women, will soon become an accomplished fact. It is quite true that the Government have provided medical relief for a good many years, but the peculiar circumstances in which high caste "purdah" women are placed have rendered it very difficult for them to take advantage of the provisions made. Under the direction of the medical officers of the Indian Army there are over 3,000 of these institutions established in different parts of the country, and many of them are conducted by well-qualified lady doctors. But, so far, they have been used practically by one class only, the necessitous poor. The number of qualified medical women at work in India at present is over 400. but there is need for many thousands to meet adequately the needs of all classes of the Indian community.

There is an article in a recent number of the Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, by Sir George Bridwood, on the Eastern significances of colour. Like everything, he writes, it is full of strange lore. He tells us that in India red is the colour of solemn joy, and of sovereign might and right, and of all reverencies, and is always worn by the Hindu women at marriages. It is also the bridal color of China. Yellow is the Hindu colour of domestic and social gladness and festivity, and is also worn at weddings, at least in Western India. Only the Sikhs in India wear blue turbans and no Hindu will wear a blue turban; and no Hindu, Muslim, or Parsi, will complete the purchase of a sapphire until after he or she has worn it for a year, to test whether meanwhile it brings them weal or woe; which explains why sapphires are comparatively so cheap in India. Yet the Mahratta women habitually go blue robed. A good deal seems to depend on the tint, or on the shade, of the blue. White is the mourning colour of the Hindus. Among the Shiah Muslims in India, red signifies the death of a martyr by bloodshed, and green by poison; and hence green is the colour consecrated to al Hasan, the eldest son of Ali, the cousin-german and adopted son of the Prophet of God, and red to al Husain, his younger son.

BOOKS AND BOOKMEN.

The volume of the "Seafield Correspondence" just published by the Scottish History Society gives pleasant glimpses of the bookish side of that trimming politician Lord Seafield, who endorsed the Treaty of union with the remark, "There's the end o' an auld sang." His bookseller seems to have been one Martha Stevenson, of Edinburgh, otherwise unknown to fame, who not only supplied the books he ordered and recommended others, but seems by and by to have crept into the Earl's confidence enough for him to entrust her with a general commission to tend him such of the "choysest new books" as she considered would suit him. The books are creditable to the taste of him who read them. In addition to the solid treatises of Locke and Temple, there are many religious works. There are Sherlock on "Death" and on "Judgment," Norris's "Practical Discourses," King's "Protestants in Ireland" and a "Defence of Episcopacy," while on one occasion the dazzling lure of the complete works of the author of "The Whole Duty of Man" is held out for 30s. While biography is represented by the "Life of the Duke of Lorraine," the Earl's interest in the "elegant" literature of his time is evidenced by the presence in his list of works by Dryden and Rapin, of a volume of "Poetical Recreations" and a "Miscellany of Ingenious Sayings." Even fiction is not absent, for there is a folio edition of "Don Quixote," and the current volume of the "Turkish Spy" was always welcome.

Once when Martha Stevenson was asked to present her account for payment to Sir James Ogilvy, the Earl's brother then in Edinburgh, Sir James refused to pay until a duplicate had been approved by the Earl. It was obviously a simple business precaution, but Martha forthwith wrote her patron protesting her integrity, and declaring that, peer of the realm as he was, she did not charge him "one farthing more" than she did the meanest customer who paid her ready money. Taking the good lady's word for it, the accounts she rendered give a good idea of the price of books during the closing decade of the seventeenth century. Temple's "Essays" cost 8s., Rapin's "Comparison of Thucydides and Livy" 3s. 6d., L'Estrange's "Æsop's Fables" £1, "Don Quixote," folio, 17s., Lock's on "Government" 5s. 6d., and on "Education" 4s. 4d. Those prices are wrought out from Scots money, estimating it at one-twelfth the value of English, but the figures would require to be multiplied by three or four to bring them into line with the present purchasing power of money.

The account in which the purchase of L'Estrange's "Æsop" is noted bears the date of August, 1694, so it was probably a copy of the second edition, which was published in that year. If so, we can have an idea of the value which his Lordship got for his coin. It is a folio of 476 pages, bound in the most solid of leather but without a title. It has an engraving of Kneller's portrait of L'Estrange and a frontispiece representing the hunchback Æsop standing among the animals that people his fable and inscribing upon a tablet the legend "Utile Dulci." The contents are equally attractive. Each fable gives rise to a "Reflection," and although the severity of the pamphleteer comes at times curiously into contrast with the grece of the fabulist, L'Estrange himself shines clearly through his moralisings. We see his aristocratic contempt for the multitude and for political preachers, we guess he is no admirer of the glorious Revolution, and the lesson of the Frogs who asked for a King is that "Kings are from God, and it is a Sin, a Folly, and a Madness, to struggle with His Appoinments. On the other hand, the pith, the terseness, the colloquial idiom, and the animation of the translations, or rather paraphrases of the fables can be seen only by an example. Here is "A Smith and his Dog": "A Blacksmith took Notice of a Cur he had that would be perpetually Sleeping, so long as his Master was at his Hammer, but whenever he went to Dinner, the Dog would be sure to make One. So he Ask'd the Dog the Reason on't. What's the meaning of it, says he that so long as I'm at the Forge, you are still taking your Nap; but so soon as my Chops begin to Walk, yours must be Walking too for Company. There's a Time to Sleep, says the Dog, and a Time to Wake; and everything is Well done that is done in Due Season. "The book contains many other fables besides those of Æsop—indeed it is said be the most extensive collection of fables in existence. It does not seem to have been reprinted since 1714, but if Mr. Rhys were to detach the Æsop part of the volume and reprint is along with the author's preface it would make a handsome addition to "Everyman's Library."

In Canada, as a correspondent has recently been reminding readers of the "Publishers' Circular," there is a very real office of censorship upon imported books exercised by the Customs Department. The authorities furnish the officials at the various ports with lists of works of which they do not approve, and the officials have power to refuse them admission. Now if the Canadians wish to have books sifted for them in this way it is no business of ours, but it does look like laying a very delicate task upon men who have not necessarily any competence for it. The truth is, it is not every Tom, Dick or Harry, nor even your better-trained Thomas Richard, or Henry, who is necessarily qualified to decide whether a book is simply foul or is a serious work in art or morals. There needs a trained aptitude. The theory that "common sense" is all that is necessary is a common one, and that heresy underlies the contention that, just as an accused man an accused book should have the advantage of a trial by jury. Would it be an advantage? For deciding upon a broad question of right and wrong a jury is an admirable expedient. That first one expert should rise up and say all he can on one side of a question, and then that another should rise and say all he can upon the other, and that thereafter the solution should be appealed not to an expert more expert still but to a body of men who may be held to represent perfectly instructed public opinion is admirable. But in pronouncing upon a book, there must be taken into consideration questions of art and tendency with which the average juryman has no conversance. Moreover, the jury would hear mere extracts, and those delivered by an elocutionist. The delivery is an element that cannot be left out of account. Those who have watched popular assemblies know how much may be taken out of words or put into them by a skilful reader. Sheridan said that he could declaim the alphabet in such a way as to make people laugh and cry. No doubt with a little practice he could have declaimed it so as to overwhelm with blushes even a jury of matrons—a great achievement. They would condemn the alphabet not as being "overtly immoral," but as, worse than that, "infinitely suggestive."

The question is sometimes asked whether authors are good men of business, and the answer probably is that they are as good men of business as other people. They or their representatives do make mistakes, however. Thus one may sell his rights for the British Empire to a London publisher and his American and Canadian rights to an American house, with the result that two competing editions, each copyright, are put upon the Canadian market. There have been cases of this sort recently, and although the publishers have been able to come to an amicable settlement without bringing the matter into court, one of the two must be a loser. Evidently the root of the trouble is that someone has sold the same thing twice over.

A new recruits has just joined the London publishers in Mr. Herbert Jenkins, who for more than ten years was manager for Mr. John Lane. He has written, too. His "Life of George Borrow," which Mr. Murray published in the spring, has been well spoken of, and he is a Blake enthusiast and researcher. It was he who discovered the State papers relating to the poet's trial for high treason, and located his grave in Bunhill Fields Cemetery. Allies of Mr. Jenkins in his publishing venture are Sir George Chubb and Mr. Alex. W. Hill, a son of Dr. Alex. Hill, sometime Master of Downing and chairman of Girton. The new firm is to be known as Herbert Jenkins, Limited, and to dwell at Arundel Place, off the Haymarket, where bookmen have lived before now.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS:—Are you broken in your best by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to taste, it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It soothes the child, it softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cases. Dr. DE JONGH'S
KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM
KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR
LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL

THE PUREST. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

Incontestably proved by Forty Years' Medical Experience to be The only Cod Liver Oil which produces the full curative effects in CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS:

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE Esq., M.R.C.S., Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils, and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. R. C. CROFT,
Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is Supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL Half-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with BETTS' Patent Capsule impressed on the top with DR. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature, and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bearing under the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures, WITHOUT THESE MARKS NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE.
